Preamble: The rise of transnational non-state actors and use of extremely violent techniques for political purposes continue to capture the global imaginary. These developments go beyond the stricures of conventional criminology’s domain of inquiry. Terrorism and its attendant war(s) particularly since September 11, 2001 have become regular features of social life. The ascendance of Boko Haram and ISIS has further increased the need for a robust understanding of the roots and variegated trajectories of terrorism. This course is designed to help students understand issues relating to the social fabrication and consequences of terrorism. It focuses on key state and non-state actors around the world based on an eclectic theoretical foundation. It is a sociological study of terrorism and an engagement with the issues inherent in terrorist threats — real or imagined — posed by non-state, transnational actors, nationalist groups and nation-states.

Course Objectives: This course engages with conventional binary notions of terrorism and interrogates widespread presuppositions, perceptions and popular images of terrorists and the threats they pose. Students are expected to be equipped with the requisite tools to understand terrorism through sophisticated theoretical engagement and case studies. Students are also expected to be able to problematize the response of self-avowed democratic countries like Canada, the US and UK to the threat of terrorism.

Evaluation Format
There are five criteria for evaluating student performance in this course. Each criterion as shown below carries a significant proportion of the final grade. The grade structure is firm and final. Students will not be given supplementary assignments to improve their grades.

Details:

Participation (20% of final grade): This is a rigorous fourth-year seminar. Each student is expected to be an active participant in every class. You are required to read assigned materials, make informed comments, and raise critical questions. The readings may take up to 5-8 hours (or more) per week and are definitely challenging. This course is not for everyone. Please, consider your other commitments before continuing with or enrolling in this class. Attendance is mandatory. Engagement in each class will be noted. No other kind of work shall be a substitute for attendance and/or participation. Any student who misses three classes will receive an ‘F’ as overall grade in the course (for the avoidance of doubt, absences do not have to be consecutive).

Article critique/discussion lead (15%): Each student will be assigned one week in which s/he will lead class discussion alongside another student (i.e. on average, two students per week). Each discussion leader will also hand in a summary/critique of the article s/he was assigned.

Please, take careful note of the following important information regarding discussion leadership and article summary/review/critique.

1. a. Each student assigned to lead discussions in a particular week will submit a summary/critique of the articles s/he was assigned. b. Critique/summary essay cannot be group work. c. While having discussions with your co-presenter(s) is fine, these are only informal conversations and do not presuppose any form of group work.

2. The critique/summary of the article a student is assigned should be 5 pages in length (double-spaced; Time New Roman Font size 12). Cover page is not included in the page limit.

3. Every student scheduled for a particular week is a “discussion leader” (i.e. relative to other students in class) and will be assessed as an individual presenter.

4. Each presenter has 10 minutes. Highlight the key points in the article (since the whole class would have [presumably] read it). Focus more on your understanding of the key issues raised by the author(s) and your appraisal. I will deduct a maximum of two marks for presentations that go over 10 minutes.

5. Your summary/critique of articles is due at the start of class on the day you are scheduled to lead discussions.

Book review (20%): A list of books is provided on page 8 of this course outline. Select one of the books for review. Your review should include a summary of the salient issues in the book and your critical appraisal. [Word count: 6 – 8 pages double-spaced; Times New Roman font size 12]. Due: February 6, 2018.

- The book review is a formal essay with a clear introduction, main text and conclusion.
Use a minimum of four other scholarly sources in your review and properly cite them. A reference list should be included at the end of your essay. Use any academic referencing style.

The review does not necessarily have to be argumentative. You are welcome to agree or disagree with the author(s) on issues raised in the book.

Consider the following questions and weave them into thematic schemes:
- What is the book about?
- What are the core points?
- Are the points convincingly marshaled i.e. is there sufficient evidence to back up the book’s claims? What other perspectives were missed?
- What is your assessment of the relevance of the book?

Various writing styles are welcome but be mindful that you are writing to demonstrate knowledge of the book and earn marks for mastery of knowledge, careful analysis and sound writing.

Class presentation (10%): This is based on your term paper. You will have 10 minutes to make a formal presentation of your term paper. More details will be provided in class.

Term paper (35%): The professor will meet with each student in February to discuss relevant topics. Students may focus on specific state or non-state actors (ISIS, Hamas, Israel, etc.) or examine specific legislations (e.g. Canada’s IRPA, etc.). Topics will widely vary and necessitate creative and critical thinking by students.

Instructions:
Select a terrorism-related topic (specific groups, policy, legislation, incident, iconic personality, etc.). Write an essay of 12-15 pages (double-spaced; Time New Roman font size 12). Your essay should have a concise introduction, research question(s), main text (arguments that are logically interwoven) and conclusion. A bibliographic list or works cited page is required as part of the page limit. Use a minimum of 12 refereed sources — articles and/or books — in your paper. Reports from groups such as Amnesty International and newspaper sources are useful but do not count as part of the required 12 refereed sources. You may use any academic referencing style.

This is an engaging exercise; early preparation is essential. The paper is due on Tuesday, April 3, 2018. It is worth 35% of the final grade.

RE: BOOK REVIEW:
Select and review one of the following books: Due date: February 6, 2018.

STUDENT RESPONSIBILITIES:
Students are expected to be aware of their academic responsibilities. This section contains important information but does NOT exhaust all of your responsibilities.

1. REGISTRATION STATUS: Students are responsible for ensuring the accuracy of their registration in courses. This can be checked online at any time.
2. WITHDRAWING FROM THE COURSE: Students who stop attending class must officially withdraw from the course. This must be done by the official withdrawal deadline for the course, which is available online. Failure to withdraw properly will result in a grade being assigned based on completed course work.

3. MISSED ASSIGNMENT DEADLINE: In general, some type of official documentation is required in order to obtain an excused absence or deadline extension. For medical illnesses, you can present any of the following:
   - “University of Alberta Medical Statement” signed by a doctor (accepted if provided in lieu of other documents)
   - "Medical Declaration Form for Students" (for Faculty of Arts students)
   - "Statutory Declaration" (for students in Faculties other than Arts, to be obtained from home Faculty or the Office of the Registrar). For other acceptable absences, such as domestic afflictions or religious convictions, the student should submit appropriate documentation to the situation. Examples include:
     - For a death in the family – a copy of the death certificate
     - For a religious conflict – a letter from the church or pastor
     - For a car accident – a copy of the accident report
     - For other serious afflictions – consult with Instructor or Department about appropriate documents

4. EXTRA CREDITS: There is no provision for extra credits in this course. Requests for extra credits will not be entertained.

5. SUBMISSION OF ASSIGNMENT: Failure to submit an assignment at the due time and date shall result in an immediate deduction of 5 points and 2.5 points every day after the deadline. Assignments sent by email or shoved under my office door have an uncanny ability of missing in transit. Kindly hand in a hard/paper copy of your assignment at the start of class on the due date. Deadline extensions are given only under the most serious circumstances with official documentation.

6. CELL PHONES AND INTERNET: Cell phones and other electronic devices are to be turned off during lectures (except under exceptional circumstances in which approval has been granted by the instructor). It is not appropriate to use any devices to browse the Internet when class is in progress.

7. STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES: Students who require accommodation in this course due to a disability are advised to discuss their needs with disability services and the instructor.

8. INSTRUCTIONAL VIDEOS AND PRESENTATIONS: Students are expected to treat all videos screened in class and guest presentations as part of the course material.
9. IMPORTANT DATES:
   - Family Day Holiday: February 19, 2018 (no classes)
   - Winter term Reading Week: February 20 - 23, 2018 (no classes)
   - Lectures for this course end: April 10, 2018

10. COURSE OUTLINE POLICY: “Policy about course outlines can be found in §23.4(2) of the University Calendar.”

11. ACADEMIC INTEGRITY: “The University of Alberta is committed to the highest standards of academic integrity and honesty. Students are expected to be familiar with these standards regarding academic honesty and to uphold the policies of the University in this respect. Students are particularly urged to familiarize themselves with the provisions of the Code of Student Behaviour (online at www.governance.ualberta.ca) and avoid any behaviour which could potentially result in suspicions of cheating, plagiarism, misrepresentation of facts and/or participation in an offence. Academic dishonesty is a serious offence and can result in suspension or expulsion from the University.”

12. “Audio or video recording of lectures, labs, seminars or any other teaching environment by students is allowed only with the prior written consent of the instructor or as a part of an approved accommodation plan. Recorded material is to be used solely for personal study, and is not to be used or distributed for any other purpose without prior written consent from the instructor.”

Disclaimer: The information in this course outline is subject to change; any changes will be announced in class.
