CENTRE FOR TEACHING AND LEARNING ACTIVITIES

From July 1, 2015 – June 30, 2018, I was appointed (half-time) to the Centre for Teaching and Learning (CTL), a central unit on campus that provides teaching and learning support to all instructors at the University of Alberta. I had three major areas of responsibility in my role as Associate Director (Curriculum):

Peer Consultation Program

I directed the CTL Peer Consultation Program. The Peer Consultation Program is a confidential, non-evaluative process where a trained peer consultant works alongside an instructor in an iterative cycle of observation, documentation and analysis of teaching practices and students' behaviours and responses, using a variety of strategies to gather information about the instructor's teaching. The goal of the Peer Consultation Program is to build personal understanding of one's teaching practice and to develop a plan to refine and/or test new ways of supporting teaching and learning. With each request for a Peer Consultation, I met with the instructor making the request to assess her/his needs and to determine a suitable match with a Peer Consultant. In addition, I held monthly meetings with the CTL Peer Consultants to confidentially discuss and provide advice on consultations. In 2016-17, I recruited 13 new Peer Consultants from across campus as there has been an increase in requests for these support services. Training occurred in the 2017-18 academic year, and new Peer Consultants received additionally mentoring from senior Peer Consultants.

Mentorship Programs: Mentoring Circles and Teaching Co-Mentorships

The purpose of CTL's Mentoring Circles Program is to encourage ongoing, shared exchange about teaching and learning across disciplines and specializations in order for participants to gain a broader vision of teaching across the organization and to aid in their development and success as university instructors. A second goal is to enhance the collaborative atmosphere in the university setting. These programs have had less uptake than the Peer Consultation program and a goal for 2017-18 is to increase awareness of and participation in these two initiatives.

Individual Consultations

I am available for individual consultations with instructors, providing support on a range of topics from using rubrics to assess student work, designing and implementing group activities in a course, providing feedback on course development including alignment of goals, outcomes, and assessment practices, and so on.

New Major Projects and Activities Initiated in 2015-18

In addition to the activities listed above, I also developed, in consultation with faculty members from the Department of Political Science, the University of Alberta Libraries, and the School of Public Health (respectively) the following initiatives:

Political Science Mentoring Circles

Fall 2015: I developed and led two 90-minute sessions for the Political Science department (topics listed below). Though not typical mentoring circles, the sessions were a mix of workshop activities and conversation and focused on developing faculty members' experiences with each of these topics, as well as identifying areas requiring growth.

University of Alberta Libraries (UAL) Workshop Series

2015 – 2017: I developed and led ten 90-minute workshops for the UAL group (topics listed below) as well as two, 3-hour “boot camps” on Active Learning (one during WILU 2017).

School of Public Health (SPH) Peer Review of Teaching and Faculty/Teaching Staff Development (2016 – 2018)

Spring 2016 – 2018: I worked with Dr. Jeffrey Johnson on three initiatives: (1) Researching and developing an in-house Peer Review of Teaching program, similar to CTL's Peer Consultation Program, for the SPH (2) consulting on policy development re: peer review of teaching for SPH's Faculty Evaluation Committee document, and (3) developing a series of seven Faculty and Teaching Staff development workshops on teaching and learning (topics listed below).

Teaching Award Winners Showcasing Project

In 2018, I led the development of a project to showcase teaching award winners on campus. This involved providing overall direction for the project, supervising the work of a Research Assistant, and consulting on a website where the project materials (videos, biographical and teaching philosophy statements, additional resources, etc.) would be housed.

WORKSHOPS FOR TEACHERS

- 2019, 2018 Historical Thinking Summer Institute: Co-leader
The Historical Thinking Summer Institute (HTSI) is a week-long intensive institute designed for teachers, graduate students, curriculum developers, professional development leaders, historians and museum educators who want to enhance their understanding of historical thinking and their expertise in designing history programs, courses, units, lessons, projects, or educational resources that explicitly focus on historical thinking. Canadian Museum of History, Ottawa, ON
- 2018 Teaching about Religion in Public Schools – Co-organized and co-led a seminar for teachers and other education professionals (n=50) on teaching about religion in public schools. This was the culminating event for my SSHRC IDG grant with Dr. Margie Patrick. See Edmonton Journal article:
<https://edmontonjournal.com/news/local-news/teach-religion-in-public-schools-to-combat-discrimination-and-violence-say-panellists>
- 2015 The Historical Thinking Project: Historical Inquiry in the Social Studies Classroom, St. Albert Public Schools
- 2009 – 2016 Teaching Historical Thinking. Three-hour workshop presented 2-3 times per year to Social Studies majors/minors in the Department of Secondary Education, Faculty of Education, University of Alberta.
- 2009 “Historian in Residence” at Fox Creek School, Alberta
Taught demonstration lessons on using artifacts to teach history to grades 1 – 6 (two classes each) and provided an evening workshop to elementary/middle school teachers on engaging students in historical inquiry.
- 2008 – 2010 From 2008 – 2010, I organized and directed “Benchmarks of Historical Thinking Professional Development Projects” with the Edmonton Regional Learning Consortium and the Calgary Regional Consortium (33 teachers total). Each group of teachers spent five professional development days (40 hours per group) over the course of each school year learning about historical thinking concepts and collaborating on the development of lesson plans, including assessment tools that assess students’ understanding of, and competency in, historical thinking concepts. The ERLC and CRC generously agreed to provide support for this exciting initiative; support which included paying for substitute teachers for Project participants, providing an honorarium for Project participants, providing meeting locations and food, reimbursing travel costs, and paying for the development of workshop materials. (See Funded Projects – Completed section for details on funding.)
- 2008 Engaging K-4 Students Through Historical Thinking and Inquiry. Full day workshop presented at the Edmonton Regional Learning Consortium, Edmonton, AB.
- 2008 Learning to Think Historically: Grades 5 – 8. Full day workshop presented at the Calgary Regional Consortium, Calgary, AB.
- 2007 Historica Summer Institute for Teachers. Week-long Summer Institute with elementary teachers from across Canada, based on the “Historical Thinking Project” and focused on teaching students how to think historically. Co-developer and Co-Leader.

2007 Engaging the Learner to Develop Skills of Historical Thinking. Full day workshop presented at the Calgary Board of Education, Calgary, AB.

2006, July 10-14 Benchmarks of Historical Thinking Summer Seminar. Week-long workshop with teachers from across Canada, during which we examined models of historical thinking and collaborated on tasks to assess students' historical thinking. Co-developer and Co-Leader.

2006 Assessing Historical Knowledge and Understanding: New Models and Approaches. Afternoon workshop presented at the Association for Canadian Studies conference, Canada West to East: Teaching History in a Time of Change, Vancouver, BC.
