Announcing the 2018 EDI Awards

Do you know someone that is advancing Equity, Diversity and Inclusion (EDI) at the University of Alberta? If so, nominate them now for an EDI Award!

The EDI Awards is a joint initiative of Equity, Diversity, Inclusion, HRS and the Office of Safe Disclosure & Human Rights. They are designed to celebrate faculty, staff, and student achievements in, and commitment to, advancing the principles of EDI. These awards recognize the activities that support the University’s mission to: “value diversity, inclusivity, and equity across and among our people, campuses, and disciplines” (“For the Public Good”).

Recipients are selected based on the following criteria:
1. The impact that the nominee is making
2. The nominee’s journey
3. The sustainability of the nominee’s work
4. Innovation or transformation

Resources

Diversity only holds meaning if it comes with inclusion. As supervisors and colleagues, we have an obligation to strive for environments where everyone has a sense of belonging, is valued for their unique skills and experiences, and are included both professionally and socially. Feelings of belonging and inclusion contribute to respectful, healthy, stimulating, creative, and innovative work teams. The hrcouncil.ca created an excellent resource. Check out the "Diversity at Work" Tool kits for information, ideas, and guidelines at: http://hrcouncil.ca/hr-toolkit/diversity-at-work.cfm.
