Thank You

We have had a very positive response to the first Edmonton Zone Anesthesiology Newsletter. Thank you for your supportive comments and insight. As we fine tune the content and format of the newsletter, you will notice some changes that, hopefully, will provide the entire Edmonton Zone Anesthesiology community with important information, interesting features and a richer reading experience.

A special thank you to everyone who took the time to send in some content. We hope that everyone can find the time to send in something. Some suggestions would be an article about a recent travel experience, a summation of news from your department, an announcement pertaining to a future anesthesia related event, etc. If there are any budding photographers out there, this is a great place to showcase your best. We will try to build the newsletter around regular features so there is always some consistancy in what is presented and how it is presented.

Regards,
John Koller

Residents

Greetings from the anesthesia residents! The past few months have passed quickly, with a number of successes and spring is now upon us with a new set of challenges.

In January, Graham Steel completed his term as chief resident, and we would like to thank him for his hard work over the past year; his initiatives in modifying the PAC experience and reestablishing a resident retreat have been well-received. Indeed, the 2nd annual resident’s retreat in Banff was enjoyed by all, with a wellness talk from Dr. Vincent Hanlon, an exercise session (call room boot camp), and time to spend with fellow residents outside of work. A huge thank you to Carolyn Hui and Laurie Itcush for their hard work in planning the event.

March has been a busy month, with a further addition to the Stephan family (congrats Jarad!), and two residents joining our program; warm welcomes to Wendell Gomez-Gualdron and Michelle Theam. Also in March, the PGY5 residents attended “Making a Mark” in Toronto in preparation for their upcoming Royal College exams in April and June; keep up the great work, we know you will all succeed!

Finally, congratulations to Dr. Ramona Kearney on her new appointment as Associate Dean of Postgraduate Medical Education; thank you for your extraordinary dedication and contributions to our residency program. At the same time, we would like to welcome Dr. Brent MacNicol as our new program director and look forward to working with him over the years to come.

Amanda Roze des Ordons, PGY4

Dates to Remember
Research Day Friday, May 14 at the Mayfair
Journal Club - May/June - still waiting for date
Department Practice Orals - Saturday, May 29 (still need 3 more examiners!!!)

Dr. Ferrante Gragasin

Recently, Dr. Gragasin was awarded the 2010 Canadian Research Award for Specialty Residents, awarded by the Royal College, based on his manuscript that was published in the American Journal of Physiology last year. Dr. Gragasin is one of two recipients of this national award.

The purpose of the awards is to provide national recognition for original work by postgraduate trainees. The winners of the awards will usually present their work at a relevant national specialty society meeting. The candidate must be a resident (postgraduate trainee registered with a university office of postgraduate education) and enrolled in a residency program accredited by the Royal College. Those certified in a primary specialty but continuing their residency towards a subspecialty in an approved residency program are also eligible. The work must have been done mainly in Canada.

The recipients will receive a certificate that bears the logo or crest of the three participating organizations together with a cheque for $2,000. The prizes will be presented at a suitable venue. The winners may be asked to present their winning papers at an appropriate meeting of a Canadian national specialty society. In addition, the travel and accommodation expenses of each award winner will be paid in accordance with Royal College guidelines.

Congratulations Dr. Gragasin!

Babies

Ella Aimei Bourne was born on the 5th of April at 19:14. She weighed 3.5 kg or 7 lbs 14 oz. Parents Khoon Chang (Stollery) and Owen Bourne (UAF) are doing well.

Jamelyn and I are pleased to announce that we had a healthy baby boy. He weighs in at 8 lbs 1 ounce. His name is Joshua Jarad Stephan. Both Mom and the baby are doing well. I’m still waiting for my chance to hold the little guy as his brothers and sisters are all baby hogs (except for the 2 year old Madelyn who has yet to acknowledge the baby’s existence.)
Making a Mark

Passing the FRCPC is a rite of passage that defines the moment when our residents can proudly announce their very deserved victory over the guardians of Echo Drive and albeit a little broke, launch themselves into a satisfying career in anesthesia and pain medicine. Of course we are more than delighted that many residents these days choose to prolong the agony and embark on a subspecialty fellowship a veritable sign of the times that our specialty is competitive and alive. Many International Medical Graduates courageously choose to wearily trudge their way to Ottawa with a sense of déjà vu and memories of previous overseas exam trauma. Many IMGs were trained in a system where it was exceptional to pass exams first time and although there was always a financial penalty, there was certainly some kudos attached to failing once or twice (I should know). Besides, I could rest assured in the knowledge that I had secured more stock for the College wine cellar. But that is all history and the Canadian system exemplifies fairness and equal opportunity.

So, after the best part of six sweaty months of exam preparation, for those who have booked their seat in the college chambers comes an opportunity to attend a 3-day exam preparation course aptly titled “Making a Mark”. Generously funded by the company that do not make Cis-Atracrium, vociferously declared independent of the College and lead by the indomitable Dr David Archer from Calgary this course is selflessly supported by numerous volunteer mock examiners from all university anesthesia departments across the land. With the College unable to rise to the challenge, this is to my knowledge the only organized anesthesia exam preparation course of its kind in Canada. The venue recently changed from the Banff Centre to the resort facilities of the BMO building in Markham, Ontario where faculty and over 130 attendees are treated to a first-class welcome and hospitality. Excellent core-topic lectures are given throughout, memorable not just because of the speakers but for the interactive PowerPoint MCQs set to “Jeopardy” music and the ever present tension that your name would soon appear on the screen bidding you attend immediately for a practice viva voce. Candidates are invited for two sets of confidential practice orals, each with two examiners, choreographed to be as realistic as possible with the added terror of being filmed if so desired. The candidate leaves the room with constructive feedback and an optional souvenir DVD of their debut performance. The examiners leave exhausted after a day’s work wondering why anyone in their right mind would volunteer to do this for a week at the College. The social highlights are the occasions when residents and IMGs alike share their common anxieties and suffering over some liquid refreshment, joined by anxious faculty wondering whether one day the boot will be on the other foot when reaccreditation rears its ugly head.

“Candidates are invited for two sets of confidential practice orals, each with two examiners, choreographed to be as realistic as possible with the added terror of being filmed if so desired.”

Not much to report this time around...
Jeff Popoff and his wife Naureen had a baby girl, Nadya. All are well. Congratulations to Brent MacNicoll for his new role as program director!

"We would like to welcome Dr. Kate Doyle as a part time addition to our Grey Nuns Anesthesia Department. Dr. Doyle will also be working part time at Misericordia and continuing in her role with the Canadian Military."

STURGEON

Only baby connection for Sturgeon would be the delivery for Jeff Popoff and Naureen Wasey, March 1, Baby Nadyia. We can report Jeff was the picture of cool, calm, and collected throughout!

The program continues to cope with the stresses felt by all sites with current political and economic situations. Our group is very appreciative of the help of colleagues from sister sites to fill gaps in the staffing schedule.

We can report that our Obstetrical practice is growing significantly. We have been told deliveries will exceed 3000 for the fiscal year end March 31, this in a unit that was originally designed in 1990 with the opening of the new Sturgeon, to grow to 1800! Epidural utilization has had a corresponding increase, and this availability of epidurals and the overall delivery experience at this site has contributed to a very positive reputation in the community of our Obstetrical program.

We look forward to increasing our involvement in medical education. Planning is in progress for Medical students to participate in Surgery/Anesthesia rotations for our site.

We have had very positive experiences with Anesthesia Residents participating in elective rotations at the site. A new initiative by Dr. Ed Lazar is underway that will see the GP Anesthesia Training Program have a presence at this site. Dr. Linda Pfeifer, a graduate of that program, will be undertaking a liaison role for the site. And of course we have a significant number of Respiratory and Paramedic students rotating through the OR as well.

Bob Boman

MIS

Tentatively (most likely) we will be having a presentation of "Remifentanil on Labour" on June 4. This will most likely be preceded by an evening presentation on Obstetrical Analgesia the evening before.

All future resident grand rounds will be made available to all sites (plus Medicine Hat).

The dates I have are: March 12, April 16, May 14, and June 11.

By the time your issue comes out, we will quite likely have revived the Edmonton Anaesthesiologists Society.

Not to toot my own horn but barring objections from administration, I will be taking over as site chief at the Mis, some time in March. The English have a song about this, "The working class can kiss my ass, I've got the foreman's job at last!" (Sung to Oh Tannenbaum).

Stollery Children's Hospital

Our activity continues to increase commensurate with increasing catchment area and acuity. We have several residents lined up for Fellowships in Pediatric Anesthesiology and we are currently working with our colleagues nationally to formalize and standardize objectives and guidelines for Fellowship trainees.

And Another Successful Anesthesia Retreat...

The weekend in Banff turned out to be a blast.

Dear social committee (Tim Yehe & Gael, Cheryl Mack & Morley, Blaine Achen & Amenlii) thank you so much for making this weekend a success!

Every year, the retreat attracts new participants and we are hoping that more and more colleagues from all hospitals in the city will come to the next retreat after hearing about the great fun we had. Even the kids can’t wait for the next one.

Here is a little summary of the activities:

Friday, March 05, as everyone gradually arrived at the Rimrock Resort Hotel (some even decided to arrive a day earlier) we gathered at the private welcome reception. A nice buffet was served.

The kids quickly found games to play and socialized happily while adults could have a relaxed talk.

Saturday, March 06

After a nice Pre-ski Continental Breakfast at 8:00 we had time to get ready and climb into the ski bus that took us to Sunshine.

Everyone then either skied as a family or in little groups.

At noon, we all gathered for lunch at the “Lookout” Sunshine Lodge in the main Village for a very nice lunch buffet. This was a great plus from previous years because we had reserved tables all together.

After lunch, the kids decided they wanted to ski with other kids. There was a little shuffling and suddenly I had no kids left, because my daughter Sarah and son Arthur wanted to ski with Heather (Morley and Cheryl’s daughter). Morley ended up with a bunch of them. And I could go have fun on the blacks. Thank you Morley!

Unfortunately, I paid for that afternoon of freedom when I woke up the next day with aching knees!

At 16:00, some adults had a drink at the pub while waiting for the kids to show up. Then, back we went with the same bus. But no, the kids were still not tired! So of course, we had to go to the hotel pool. And again, Morley, Rick Haugen and others happily entertained the kids in the pool while some of us soaked in the hot tub or worked out in the fitness. Thank you Morley!

And then the best part! A gourmet dinner buffet and children’s buffet awaited us and most importantly Dance and Games. Every year the kids compete in acrobatic moves to win some toy.

On Sunday, March 07

0730 – 0830 A bunch of us women met for Yoga Wellness. Yes indeed, I said women because in fact no single man showed up! Perhaps next year someone will have the courage to show up in tight outfit!

0900 – 1100 While the spouses enjoyed free time going to the pool some of us showed up at the Morning Workshop held by Dr. Marc Cherniweh, from AMA, to talk about “Storm, Surviving a Life in Practice.”

And finally to close up a wonderful weekend we gathered for a Brunch, before heading home.

I will keep wonderful memories about this retreat. It is very nice to meet my colleagues in a relaxed environment.

Thank you again Dear Social Committee!

Hello Colleagues:

Here is a brief update with some information that may be of interest to you:

For this month’s update, I want to stick to the theme of “engagement”. I hear this word a lot in meetings I attend, and people generally see the idea of engagement in a very positive light. I feel the same way, but the word as it applies to physicians, and more specifically anesthesiologists, fits into the category of words that make me ask, “what exactly does this mean?”

Let me go off on a bit of a tangent here. A large corporation in the U.S. was in financial trouble in the early 1980’s. Despite imminent bankruptcy, their customers felt so strongly about the value of their product; and their stakeholders were so committed to the business that it survived. In return, the corporation needed to restructure the way it works. The organization evolved from a “command and control” style of leadership to the use of “self managed working teams” and group consensus decision making. Imagine a factory with no supervisors where knowledgeable teams or “natural work groups” work together to improve processes and the products of the company. The only rule is that teams cannot do things that interfere with the work of other teams. Team cohesiveness is thought to be very high as a result of two factors:

a) Fairness of leadership.

b) Groups’ influence over use of resources, including group staffing and training!

The company is Harley Davidson. I’m not suggesting here that we should all get leather outfits and “head out on the highway”, although it is true that my own summer vacation plans for this year are not yet finalized. The reason I think this information is relevant is that I believe our anesthesia community works closely with organizations facing big challenges where patients (“customers”) and stakeholders alike have a strong belief in the value of the products or services delivered.

I believe this story is relevant, because there are a number of opportunities for you to be “engaged” as a member of our anesthesia community. I would like to summarize some of these opportunities:

1. Working Groups – Three working groups have been proposed and agreed upon by our Program Council as follows:
   i. Preoperative assessment
   ii. Pain Management
   iii. Obstetric Anesthesia
   The goal of these working groups is “to support best quality clinical care, education, and research in these areas”. There are no detailed terms of reference, because these should be developed by the groups themselves. That is another way of saying that no one is going to tell you what to do or how to do it. Our Program Council members have been asked to nominate one or two department members from each site based department who might be interested in being a part of these working groups. I can guarantee that if three or more people from each department are interested in joining, they won’t be turned away.

2. AHS Committees – The following types of committees need anesthesia input in order to be effective:
   i. Anesthesia Equipment and Supplies Process including Safety Engineered Devices
   ii. Pharmacy and Therapeutics
   iii. Quality Assurance / Safe Surgery Checklist
   iv. Provincial Clinical Networks (Surgery and Bone and Joint)

3. Participation within the University Department of Anesthesiology and Pain Medicine. This might include activities that support education, research activities, or supporting the work of one of the clinical “Divisions” of the Department.

4. AMA Section of Anesthesia / CAS Alberta Division. If none of the above areas appeal to you, perhaps you could be part of building a process for Edmonton anesthesiologists to advocate on behalf of the patients we care for and our ability to do so. In Dr. Brian Knight’s recent CME Survey, 67.7% of respondents felt that it was “important” or “very important” that the EAS, in addition to coordinating Continuing Medical Education, should play a “Political / Interacting with Administration” role. The results of this interesting survey will be posted on our F-Drive for you to review. Personally, I believe that our respective site Medical Staff Associations do a great job of advocacy; but they often miss the mark with respect to participation of anesthesiologists. Consider whether you can realistically “close your office” to attend a monthly medical staff association meeting at noon. It’s great to support your site Medical Staff Association, but perhaps we also need a local process, specific to anesthesiologists, that we can actively participate in. This is not the work of our Program Council, but it would be complementary to it and would be beneficial work. I am sure that Dr. Scott Paterson and Dr. Doug Duval would welcome your ideas and participation regarding such a process.

5. This newsletter itself, or other opportunities to communicate with your colleagues. Many of you can legitimately say you are already involved in the above activities or others like them. But is there an opportunity for you to communicate to your colleagues on the great work you are doing and perhaps enlist some help? We have plenty of work ahead of us in reviving the University Department Website, and it may also be time to move beyond the AHS Information Systems F-Drive or “poor man’s website” referred to above in “4”.

What might you get in return for your participation and engagement? Most of the above roles are voluntary and may continue to be in the foreseeable future – they don’t pay any money. However, I believe strongly that you have a right to expect transparency and a part in the decision making process of our organizations as well as respect for your contribution in return for the investment of your time and expertise. This is not a guaranteed outcome if you participate, but participation is the only way to build towards such an outcome.

I continue to think of “engagement” as I understand it to be a positive thing. If the only thing you do in response to this update is to read through the referenced article, Brian’s survey, or respond with what you see as barriers to your participation or improvements that you see as being necessary, please do so. Please take the opportunity to invite me to one of your Department Meetings so we can have a two way discussion about engagement. Your feedback is welcome.

Sincerely,

Michael Auld

CAMTA

Members of the Edmonton Anesthesia Community once again packed their hockey bags and departed for Ecuador this past February. Dr. John Lilley from the Royal Alexandra Hospital, Dr. Teresa Eklesson from the Stollery Children’s Hospital, Dr. Derek Dillane and Dr. Saifee Rashid from the University of Alberta Hospital, Andy Escalona RRT from the Misericordia Hospital and myself joined The Canadian Association of Medical Teams Abroad’s (www.camta.com) ninth mission to Quito to provide Orthopedic care to Ecuador’s most impoverished citizens.

The team cared for amazingly grateful Ecuadorians needing hip replacements, foot, hip and soft tissue procedures. The majority of the 13 million people in Ecuador have minimal access to proper orthopedic care. In Ecuador the majority of club feet are left untreated. Ecuador has a particularly high incidence of hip dysplasia. Hip arthroplasties not only change the lives of our patients but break the cycle of family poverty with better employment opportunity through improved mobility.

The surgical team also travelled to Cuenca, the 3rd largest city located in the Ecuadorian highlands to introduce a second Surgical Implant Generation Network (www.cign-post.org) system, a legacy that will continue to heal the poor for decades to come.

CAMTA is a registered charity that is generously supported through financial contributions and donated goods. Please consider a gift to help poor people with joint problems. View a video of the CAMTA mission at www.camta.blogspot.com and contact me at lenday@shaw.ca.

Glenn Day, RRT
