Clinic Overview

Justik Medical Clinic is a busy family practice serving the Strathcona community as part of the Edmonton Southside Primary Care Network. It is a full-service clinic that provides walk-in evening clinics, Saturday clinics, and on-call coverage to its patients. The Justik is well-regarded by the community, and was voted “Best Medical Clinic” in Edmonton by Vue Weekly in 2013, 2014 and 2015.

The clinic is a short walking distance from the amenities of Whyte Avenue.

Learning Opportunities

Most of the learning is based on hands-on experience. Didactic teaching activities and group learning for Justik and Kaye Clinic residents are scheduled at monthly Academic Days. The Justik is equipped with a user-friendly electronic medical record system and residents are supported by helpful and knowledgeable office staff.

Justik Medical Clinic is home to family physicians with a wide range of practices. Consultants are also readily accessible in Internal Medicine and in Psychiatry. There are opportunities for minor procedures including skin biopsies and IUD insertions.

“Justik is a high volume clinic with a nice mix of outpatients. The staff are supportive and the EMR is great.”

“I love the staff at Justik! The medical office assistants and other administrative staff are very friendly and fun to work with. We have on site access to dieticians, a behavioural health worker, RNs and an exercise specialist. As part of Edmonton Southside Primary Care Network, we also have access to a host of workshops and other disciplines for our patients. The Referral Office is one of the best things about working at Justik - once we’ve written the referral letter, our experienced staff do all the leg work to set our patients up with the right consultants.”

“At Justik, residents experience a busy, varied practice and get practical training in all aspects of community family medicine.”
