Information on the Advanced Project Option

For the Bachelor of Arts in Recreation, Sport and Tourism (BARST) Degree

“What is an Advanced Project?”

This project option is designed to provide an opportunity for BARST degree students who are interested in scholarly and research skills. It may be of particular interest to those BARST students planning to pursue post graduate studies.

The advanced project option will substitute an additional *9 of course work (in or out of the faculty, but should be related to the advanced project in some way; e.g. content related, research methodology, etc) and *6 of research based directed study in place of the *15 normally dedicated to the practicum (RLS 441 and RLS 449).

NOTE: It may be possible to use one of the KRLS 495 Senior Research Experience courses as part of the research based directed study requirement.

“Who is eligible to do an Advanced Project?”

Admission into the advanced project option is based on a demonstrated high standard of academic performance (GPA of 3.5 or higher), the preparation and acceptance of a program proposal detailing objectives, course work, and research based directed study (RLS 499), and the availability of an academic advisor.

“How do I apply to do an Advanced Project?”

Students are required to prepare a three page proposal in consultation with an academic advisor who agrees to supervise the research based directed study. An application form must then be completed and submitted together with the proposal for approval of the Associate Dean, Undergraduate Programs.
