Help Us Empower The University of Alberta First Nation, Métis and Inuit Students

Director’s Message

The First Peoples' House (formally the Aboriginal Student Services Centre) supports over 1200 self-identified First Nation, Metis, and Inuit learners across all faculties at the University of Alberta. FPH knows the importance of staying healthy and active, especially when enduring stressful times at university. With finances being one of the barriers to the success of First Nation, Metis, and Inuit learners, FPH created Miyopimâtisiwin Golf Tournament as a fundraiser for students to have access to fitness classes through Campus Community and Recreation.

I personally invite interested individuals and corporations to join us in our vision to empower University of Alberta First Nation, Métis and Inuit learners on their journey of higher education. The reason for naming the golf tournament Miyopimâtisiwin, which is a Cree term for a good life or a good way of living, was simple as golfing can be viewed as living a good life, a place of freedom and tranquility. This is simply what FPH envisions for our First Nation, Metis and Inuit learners at the University of Alberta, that they too can live a good life of thriving in post-secondary. With your care and support I know this vision can be a reality.
