Dear Neighbour,

Thank you for attending this evening’s open house to review materials associated with the Research & Collections Resource Facility (RCRF). The purpose of this evening’s open house is to align with the consultation requirements of Appendix 18 of the Long Range Development Plan (LRDP) which indicates that when the University of Alberta undertakes a substantial development, it will hold two open houses: the first open house to show site options and conceptual plans, the second open house to show preliminary design. The RCRF is a substantial development and tonight is the second and final open house. It is an opportunity for our neighbours to meet with U of A representatives and ask questions about the RCRF project, review the proposed preliminary design and provide feedback. Please note the RCRF is not a University of Alberta Property Trust Inc. (UAPTI) project.

All information that you have seen this evening will be on the University of Alberta, Office of University Relations website located at www.uab.ca/community. Comments will be accepted until December 9, 2015.

In an effort to meet the sustainable principles of the University of Alberta, all information regarding the RCRF will be posted on the above site. We would ask that you use this as your first stop for information. If you do not have access to a computer, please contact the following office and the digital information will be printed and mailed to you.
