Institutional Level Outcomes

Created by the University Act, 1906 of the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Alberta, the University of Alberta is a board-governed, publicly-funded university that operates as a Comprehensive, Academic and Research Institution under the authority of Alberta’s Post-Secondary Learning Act. The U of A is responsible for fulfilling its mandate, mission, and vision as set out in its approved Mandate Statement and Mandate and Roles Document (to be reviewed on an annual basis and amended as required in collaboration with the Minister and in compliance with the Post-Secondary Learning Act).

The Government and the U of A share a commitment to ensuring high-quality post-secondary education that fosters collaboration and innovation to build a strong economy and a diverse society, with a high quality of life and citizens engaged in the political, social and cultural life of the province, country, and world. To that end, the Government of Alberta acknowledges that a free and open academy is a vital safeguard for a democratic society, and thus respects principles of academic freedom and administrative autonomy essential to the ability of the university to fully realize its mission and mandate. The University and the Government agree that a free and open academy is a vital safeguard for a democratic society.

The University and Government work in partnership to provide education for Albertans that includes a broad range of perspectives in an open, thought-provoking environment, and to ensure that research and the application of new knowledge flourish in Alberta. The government understands and supports the University’s responsibility for leadership in research and education at provincial, national, and international levels.

The University of Alberta’s fundamental mandate is to advance knowledge and to offer a broad range of outstanding learning and research programs that prepare citizens and leaders who will make a difference and fuel a continuous flow of discovery and innovation.

Providing provincial, national, and global leadership in a knowledge driven economy and society, the U of A:

- Attracts scholars of international reputation (undergraduate and graduate students, post-doctoral fellows, staff and faculty) to foster, conduct and disseminate research and creative activity, both pure and applied, within and across all major program areas at an internationally recognized level of excellence.
- Engages in nationally and internationally recognized teaching, and in research and creative activity that produces qualified graduates as well as advances in knowledge, social and technological innovation, and public policy.

DRAFT DATE: Sept 12, 2013
• Transfers new knowledge and creative activity to Alberta, Canada and the world for the public good, through various means including, where appropriate and feasible, the commercialization of intellectual property.

• Collaborates with other Campus Alberta institutions, government, industry, and the non-profit and cultural sectors to sustain a knowledge-driven economy, enhance the public good, and create societal benefits.

• Elevates the province’s national and global profile by building top-level international partnerships and by transferring made-in-Alberta ideas and innovation to the global community and marketplace.

In a dynamic, integrated, and sustainable learning and research environment, the University of Alberta:

• Provides access to comprehensive, diverse, competitive, innovative, and high-quality learning opportunities that result in internationally respected credentials, including bachelor’s, master’s, and doctoral degrees, university certificates and diplomas.

• Ensures this access to a broad and diverse demographic of undergraduate and graduate students, including international and interprovincial students and those from rural, Aboriginal, francophone, and other underserved communities in Alberta.

• Offers, develops, and renews programming that prepares students for global citizenship and employment in local, national, and international organizations, businesses, institutions, and industries; meets the demands of students with various interests and aspirations; and responds and is relevant to social and economic shifts in society.

• Creates, in partnership with Campus Alberta institutions, laddering opportunities from high school to post-secondary study to lifelong learning and professional development.

• Strives to attain and maintain student-to-professor and undergraduate-to-graduate student ratios comparable to provincial, national, and international peer research-intensive, medical-doctoral public institutions.

The U of A provides undergraduate and graduate learning experiences that are distinguished by:

• A balanced, interdisciplinary academy, with excellent arts and sciences programs that are foundational to and interconnected with excellent professional faculties.

• Student choice in pursuing degrees in programs and disciplines relevant to their talents, interests, and professional aspirations.

• Participation in original, ground-breaking research, scholarship, discovery, and creative activity that creates new knowledge, drives innovation and invention, and addresses global challenges.
• Mentorship from excellent faculty instructors and researchers who are acknowledged leaders and inspired mentors in their research fields.
• Opportunities for international experience through study abroad, internships, and work experience.
• A rich co-curricular slate of programs, clubs, activities, etc. which is largely student-driven and thus is a genuine reflection of diverse student communities, interests, passions, and activities.
• Innovative curricular and co-curricular programming that inspires, fosters and supports student leadership, entrepreneurship, and global citizenship.
• A comprehensive range of student services to ensure that students are fully supported from admission through to convocation and are able to successfully achieve desired academic outcomes.

University of Alberta Governance

• Practice effective, autonomous governance that is authorized by the Post-Secondary Learning Act, Public Agencies Governance Framework, the Alberta Public Agencies Governance Act (APAGA), and the approved Mandate and Roles Document.
• Provide ongoing professional development and training of board members.
• Continue to comply with government expense disclosure policies.
• Maintain and continue to identify strategies for student participation in governance.
